Anne Frank programme is empowering

The Anne Frank Trust UK has taken its flagship educational programme to a Henlow school which has just been graded as 'good' after a successful Ofsted visit.

Henlow C of E Academy hosted the two-week project, right, on the tragic young Holocaust victim to give pupils the confidence to challenge prejudice and discrimination.

Head Caren Earp said: "It helped our pupils to understand the damage caused by hatred."

Ofsted inspectors who recently visited the school gave it a 'good' rating for four key areas of leadership and management, behaviour and safety of pupils, quality of teaching, and achievement of pupils.

Mrs Earp added: "Thanks to our parents and pupils for the positive approach they adopt every day."
